Baby Blue Wren has an Adventure

There was an odd noise coming from behind the statue on the front verandah when Nanny Peri came home from counting flowers on a sunny Tuesday.

The dogs, who had been asleep near the door, looked about to find where the high pitched chirruping was coming from.

There were two baby Blue Wrens hiding in the Begonia!

One baby Blue Wren hopped up onto the back of the chair (he was cheeky) but the other baby stayed hidden—can you spot her?

Baby Blue Wren has an Adventure

*The cheeky Baby Blue Wren had been looking through the glass,
and when Nanny Peri opened
the door, in he hopped.*

First he sat on the window-sill...

*Then he spotted the blue glass bird
hanging in the window.*

“That’s just like my Dad!” he chirped, and hopped up on the glass bird’s head!

*Then he hopped onto the wing of the glass bird. It started to swing
from side to side!*

“Shoo!” said Nanny Peri.

She pointed her finger at Baby Blue Wren.

“You need to go back to your Mum and Dad before you have an accident and break my glass bird! Off you go, the door is that way”

Nanny Peri pointed to the open door, where the rest of Baby Blue Wren’s family were making worried chirrups. Baby Blue Wren quickly flitted off to his Mum, before Nanny Peri could wave her finger at him again!
